News . . .

(By Georgia Brock)

A careful survey by the USO Council shows a great need to continue USO activities and especially the clubrooms at 5017 Newport where attendance seems to be steadily mounting instead of diminishing. In view of this decision it is hoped that the following organizations who have so generously contributed in the past will continue to do so and help to make a "Home Away from Home" until the boys get home again:

Royal Neighbors, Kiwani-Annes, Point Loma Chapter O. E. S., V. F. W. Auxiliary, Baptist Church, Synergians Pt. Loma Methodist Church, Ocean Beach Bakery, Robert's Bakery, as well as many local citizens.

The monthly dance will be held Saturday night Sept. 8 at 8 p. m. Thiele's orchestra will furnish the music. All servicemen and women and their friends are invited.

Powell has been a resident of California for about 20 years and has been in the newspaper and printing business all his adult life. At Escondido he had been a member of the Kiwanis club.

Stevenson Bros. Enlarge Garage; Add Equipment

The Stevenson Bros., Jack and Bob, this week are completing extensive remodeling of their Ocean Beach garage on Newport Ave. At the rear of the building they have constructed an annex 35x50 that adds 1575 square feet to their floor space, greatly expanding their shop rooms. Soon as enough help is available they will use the annex especially as a car body shop.

Most of the interior front of the garage also has been remodeled, providing a separate office room and a greatly expanded stock room for auto parts and accessories. The enlarged stock room gives them storage and shelves to carry all fast moving parts including ignition, batteries, front end parts, etc. for all the popular makes of cars.

In equipment the major additions consist of a new Bear front end alignment rack, new grease rack and all new brake equipment consisting of a new brake machine and a brake drum lathe.

Besides the two brothers, who are the owners of the business, the working personnel includes seven mechanics and helpers, and "we could use at least five more mechanics if they were to be had," Jack Stevenson stated Tuesday in reporting on the help situation. The five mechanics now on duty with the firm are Gurnsey Duncan, Frank Warren, Lyle Wilson, Reginald Rose and Orval Smart.

List 42 Teachers for High School Opening

Registration, New Students, Closes Today (Friday)

Expects Enrollment at Dana to Be Over 1200

Local Art School To Hold Exhibit Starting Sunday

An unusual setting for an art exhibit will be given the forthcoming show of The Village School of Art in Ocean Beach when the school starts its one-week exhibit of students' and instructors' work on Sunday, Sept. 9, "California Admission day." The canvases will be exhibited outdoors on the Studio "Deck", so called because the pier at 5172 W. Pt. Loma Blvd. on which the studio is located juts so far over the water that it gives one the illusion of being on a ship.

The "Deck show will include oil paintings by the following students: Martha Bohgren and Allen C. Campbell of La Jolla; Athene Kelly and Pvt. Clarence McCabe of San Diego; Capt. Jo G. Martin, USMC, San Diego; Thelma Brown, Carolyn C. Campbell, Eleanor Diaz, Ruth T. Dryden, Roland T. Stevenson, and Thelma Underhill, Ocean Beach. Instructors whose canvases will be shown are: Peggy Maguire, Orren R. Louden, Marian S. Lauden and Robert R. Stewart. In the Juniors' group, those exhibiting will be: Donald Bull and Kendrick Kellogg of Mission Beach; Joan Ross, Jennell Sommers, Sandra Stauffer and Jean Titlow of Ocean Beach.

The Village School of Art is located at the Hotel Ocean Village, 5172 West Pt. Loma Blvd., Ocean Beach, and may be reached by Ocean Beach, Mission Beach or La Jolla buses. The public is cordially invited to attend the "Deck" show starting Sunday, September 9.

Sgt. and Mrs. R. J. Bumbaugh of 5076 Saratoga Ave. had the pleasure over the week-end of a visit from a former Chicago friend, Capt, Joseph J. McCarthy of the U. S. Marine Corps. The captain recently returned from the Pacific theatre of the war where he was in the thick of the fighting on Saipan, Kwajalein, Iwo Jima and Tinian. Since coming back to the states he has been stationed at Camp Elliott, but will leave this week for Washington D. C. Then he expects to return here in the near future.

Ocean Beach Camp & Hospital

Who has a radio they will donate to a service boy? It can be a cabinet or table model. This boy wants a radio of any kind badly.

Camp and Hospital wants wash cloths, string, wire and cellophane. Wash cloths can be made of old towels. The string is what you get at the stores. Just tie the ends together and make a ball of it. Cellophane can be either used or new. Wire of any kind that can be used for making hangers for our Christmas tree ornaments.

You remember I asked you the first of the year to save little faces from magazine pictures or your Christmas cards to make angel decorations. Please send them in. Mrs. Jones at Camp and Hospital wants them badly. Last year our Girl Scouts made beautiful little angels, bells, trees, etc. Red Cross was delighted with them.

We are making many tree decorations at the Center, 4769 Del Monte Ave., and need help with them as the abrupt ending of the war changed our plans. Both Red Cross and U. S. O. are working like mad to get them finished in time to send to our occupied countries, and hospitals, etc., here at home. All our sick and wounded will be in America for Christmas. Nothing we can do can repay our servicemen, so please help to make life a little more pleasant for them.

Did you know that each week Red Cross helps service couples at their weddings. It may be a service couple or a service man or a Wave but Red Cross likes to

Total of 50 Teachers On Roster, 21 of Them New

(By Clarence R. Swenson)

Dana Junior high school will open next Monday with a staff of 50 teachers and an estimated enrollment of between 1200 and 1300 students. Because of the fact that the new addition to the building is not completed the school will be run on a double session basis until November, with the eighth and ninth graders reporting in the morning from 8 o'clock until noon and the seventh graders reporting in the afternoon from 12:30 p. m. until 4:30.

New students from out of town have been registering mornings of this week and the faculty has been on duty since Tuesday getting everything in readiness for Monday's opening of the fall session. Students enrolled in the school last year and sixth graders from Ocean Beach elementary school and other elementary schools in the Point Loma area are already registered and need only report to the school Monday to get their programs. Eighth and ninth graders should report to Dana at eight o'clock Monday but seventh graders are urged to wait until 12:30 in the afternoon and to eat their lunches before reporting. No cafeteria facilities will be available to students Monday, but cafeteria service will be provided thereafter to those who find it inconvenient to eat at home, due to mothers working or for some other good reason.

The personnel of the school has increased greatly over the summer and 21 new names appear on the faculty roster. 22 new names, in fact, since Miss Evelyn Bettger married Lieut. William Frieden, U. S. N., during the summer. Mrs. Frieden will report back to school a week late, following a brief honeymoon in the East.

Cameron Sellar, popular woodshop teacher, was claimed by Uncle Sam last July and he is now stationed at Camp Roberts as a soldier in the army. His place will be taken by a Mr. Powers.

Mrs. Edith C. Smith, formerly a visiting teacher in the Bureau of Child Guidance of San Diego has been appointed dean of girls and will be chairman of counselling at Dana. Miss Marie Sheridan, formerly of Logan school, will teach in the English department. Delbert Dolphin, who hails from Ohio City, Ohio will teach science. Two Sailors Nabbed For "Borrowing" Bus

A couple of sailors from USS Sigourney were arrested at the lower gate of Fort Rosecrans about 2:30 a. m. Thursday by Officers W. I. Whitehouse and E. E. Carpenter of the Ocean Beach police station. The two were booked in the city jail charged with theft of the bus, which was a new 1945 latest model "Aeracoach" belonging to the Greyhound Bus Lines.

The officers report that the bus was taken from the down town parking lot at Union and F streets and evidently was driven around and out to Fort Rosecrans. No explanation was offered by the pair, reports the local station.

GOD IS MY CO-PILOT

By COL. ROBERT L. SCOTT

WNU Features.

CHAPTER XII: Scott goes on so strafing missions with his "Old Exterminator," as he has now nicknamed his Kittyhawk, and cuts a Jap battalion to bits.

CHAPTER XIII: The AVG are told they are to be inducted into the U. S. army. Scott returns to India and continues his single ship raids on the Japs. He is now known back in the States as "the one man air force."

On his take-off from Hengyang, as he gave the ship the gun Baumler had felt a terrible electrical shock through his sweaty hand on the stick control. He couldn't turn the stick loose or the ship would have crashed in the take-off run; so he grimly held on. Take hold of the spark plug of your car some time while the engine is running, and you'll feel just about what Ajax felt. But he kept holding it until he was at an altitude where it was safe to turn the stick loose, get out his handkerchief, and wrap it around the stick.

Even after he had been through the fight and came in to land at Lingling he had to take some more of the shock cure, for by that time the handkerchief was damp and the electricity was jumping through it. He couldn't stay long on this last field, for the Japs were on the way back in waves; so he reserviced and taxied out to take off. Though the engine was now missing badly, Ajax couldn't wait—the Japs would be there in a matter of minutes.

He tried a take-off with the current going through his arms again and the engine spitting and sputtering—and at the end of the runway he still hadn't enough speed to get in the air. He would swerve the ship about and try the other direction. Finally after three runs he got the fighter plane in the air, pumped the wheels up by hand and continued doing it for five hundred miles—and so flew back to Kunming. He told me later it didn't matter what he did now; when he got in jail they'd never be able to electrocute him in the chair if the old P-40 Number 104 had failed to do it that August morning.

But it wasn't all hard work and no play in China. Some evenings we used to sit in our cave down at Kweilin and listen to the Tokyo radio. They would give us reports on the missions that we flew to Hankow, Canton, and the cities near Lake Puyang Hu—Nanchang and Kukiang. They'd declare that we were using barbarous tactics and that we were going to be treated as guerrillas if we were captured.

One night while we sat there calmly listening to the news and playing gin rummy, Tokyo news-analysts announced they did not think the American fighter force in China was large. True enough, said the radio, they had struck weakly at several cities, in their barbaric way bombing innocent Chinese women and children, and for this the American pirates would pay when they were prisoners of the Imperial Japanese Government, now fighting to liberate Asia for the Asiatics.

We listened to the usual "blah" without raising an eyebrow, until Radio Tokyo continued: "We don't think the American fighter force in China is more than three hundred ships."

You could have knocked us over with a feather. We dropped our cards and I looked at General Chennault—he'd been acting as if he was taking a nap, but I knew he had been listening. We all laughed. We had thirty-two ships in China at the time, and only sixteen of these were in first-class combat condition.

I remember that the General said, "Well, boys, if we're making them think we have three hundred—we're doing all right."

The General got up and called to his little black dachshund. "Come on, Joe," he said, and they walked out.

There was a squadron that came over from Assam to work with us, part of another group from India. In this squadron there were some fine fighter pilots, one of whom was Lieut. Dallas Clinger from old Wyoming. Clinger was another man who in years gone by in the West would have been a great gunman like Tex Hill. Only Clinger wouldn't have cared whether he was on the side of the Law, the Mormons, the Church, or Jesse James. He just wanted to fight.

One morning Clinger was one of a formation of three fighters over Henyang. His combat report read like this:

"I was flying on my leader's wing — Lieutenant Lombard — at 23,000 feet when we saw three enemy planes down below circling. There were larger formations reported around. Just then I heard my flight leader say: 'There are three stragglers—let's attack 'em.' So we dove into them like mad. As I shot into the Zero on the right of the formation I saw that we were in the midst of twenty-four other Zeros, all shooting at us. I got mad and shot at every plane that I could get my sights on. I think I shot one down but I was so busy I didn't see it crash."

This was signed "DALLAS CLINGER—2nd Lieutenant—Almost Unemployed."

What Clinger had really done was the greatest piece of daredevil flying that any of us had ever seen. Instead of diving away from the twenty-seven ship circus as the others had done, he had stayed and fought the old-fashioned "dog-fight" until the Japs just about took him to pieces from sheer weight of numbers. When they straggled home they must have been the most surprised bunch of pilots in all Japan, for this crazy American with his heavy P-40 had done everthing in or out of the book. He fought right side up and upside down, from 23,000 feet down to less than one thousand. As many Japs as could fill the air behind Clinger would get there and try to hang on while they shot; but Clinger wouldn't fight fair and stay there. In the end, he came right over the field, diving from the enemy until he had outdistanced them enough to turn; then he'd pull up into an "Immelmann" and come back shooting at them head-on.

He was last seen after the unequal fight skimming out across the rice paddies, making just about 500 miles an hour, with some ten to twelve Zeros following. For some reason they seemed reluctant, as though they didn't know whether to run after Clinger or leave him alone. He came in for lunch with his ship badly shot up by their cannon. But he had shot one of them down and had got another "probable."

Down Lingling way on another morning, Clinger went into an attack with his engine acting up. After the first contact with the enemy, he was forced to land, followed by two enemy strafers. As Clinger maneuvered the failing fighter into a safe landing, the two Zeros came down shooting at his rolling P-40.

Dallas from Wyoming got out on the wing to jump onto the ground, with his ship still rolling. Just then one of the Jap bullets went right through his seat-pack chute, passing exactly between Clinger's pants and where he sat on the parachute. He got so mad he jumped back in the cockpit and shot at two Zeros as they passed over his nose. After all, air-cooled guns are made to shoot while the ship is going two or three hundred miles an hour—but Lieutenant Clinger said he got in a pretty good burst from his grounded fighter before the six Fifties froze.

It goes to show that a fighter pilot has got to be the most offensive-minded man in all the world. I think he's got to know he's better than any other pilot he'll ever meet in the air, and such a man was this one.

Johnny Alison had helped to train Clinger in the tactics of fighter pilots. In fact, Johnny used to fly with ever man in his flight on his wing, at one time or another. In one training flight such as this he took Clinger up and they practiced attacking one another—"dog-fighting," the "pea-shooter" pilots say. Up there at nearly 20,000 feet they came at one another head-on, time after time, until the moment when, as Johnny told me later, he was sure Clinger was going to run into him. Alison, who usually forced others to give way, had to dive under Clinger's P-40. They circled and tried again, and again Clinger kept right on coming, until, as the ships drew together at well over six hundred miles an hour relative speed, once more Johnny had to dodge, and the Wild Man from Wyoming went on over his head.

They landed then, and by the time Johnny had climbed out of his ship he had calmed down. Clinger came nonchalantly over. Just in passing Alison said, "That was pretty good flying, Clinger; you fly formation well and you look around okay. But you want to watch those head-on runs—you nearly hit me up there. Did you know that?"

Clinger shifted the weight of his body back to both feet. With his chin out, he answered: "Yes, Sir, Major—I tried to. You see, you've been flying longer than I have and I know I'm not as good a pilot as you are. But, Sir, I knew I'd come closer to you than you would to me."

You can find the remains of a good many Japs in China, or somewhere down in the China Sea, who know that Clinger meant just what he said. He'd keep coming at them head-on and shoot them out of the sky before they got to him.

The battle for the defense of Hengyang lasted through August, but we didn't just sit there on the defensive. We rapidly took the offensive as our best defense, and kept it up until higher headquarters sent us a very classic radio:

"You either did not understand or did not receive my last radiogram to remain on the defensive. Repeat quote on the defensive unquote. Signed, Chennault."

We knew that he had had to adopt defensive strategy because we were so short of equipment. But before the order came we really had the fun. We struck every Jap base we could make with our fuel range—along the Yangtse, Hankow, Kukiang, Sienning, Yoyang—and strafed along the river. We bombed Nanchang five times in three days, and in six days we dropped 30,000 pounds of five-hundred-pound bombs there from P-40's.

At Nanchang, on August 11, 1942, I shot down my fourth enemy plane that was confirmed. Though I hate the Japs with a passion, I felt sorry for that pilot, for he never saw me at all. But as I left his burning ship North of the runway that he had been taking off from, I thought of the boys in the Philippines and Java, and I wasn't so sorry.

I had dropped my five-hundred-pound bomb on the hangars, when in pulling out of the dive I saw Lieutenant Barnum, from Old Lyme. Connecticut, continue his dive on a Jap ship, and begin to fire on it. I looked below. There was dust at the far end of the Jap field where one enemy plane was taking off. I rolled over and dove, pulling out about a half mile behind the enemy at the moment he got off the ground. His wheels had just begun to move to the "up" position as I got him dead in my sights and pressed the triggers. As the pilot died, his new 1-97-2 pulled straight up, then spun into the ground the few feet it had climbed. I passed over it as the flames belched from the wreckage. I climbed for an enemy observation plane higher over Lake Puyang Hu, but the Jap outclimbed me, and though I fired at him several times from long range he finally got away. On this trip, Barnum had shot down one enemy ship, and Lieutenant Daniels, though unable to release his wing-rack fragmentation bombs, had strafed the field with his bombs hanging on. After the attack, this pilot had force-landed his plane in a rice paddy near Hengyang rather than bail out—and this decision to save the ship for spare parts had been made with the six frags still hanging from the faulty wing-racks. He got away with it, and Captain Wang was able to salvage the fighter.

When the P-40's got so shot up that we were afraid they'd quit running and we'd lose them over the enemy lines, we were called back to Kunming. There, sitting around for two weeks while we worked on the ships and anxiously looked for mail from home, the war seemed far away.

Candidates for Pointer Eleven Report Monday

Carnival, Sept. 28th, Will Open 1945 Grid Season

Candidates for the 1945 edition of the Point Loma high school football squad began to report to Coach Herbert Ward at the high school Monday morning.

Only five lettermen from last year's team are available for this season, and one of them, Jim Hiltz end, is somewhat doubtful reports Coach Ward. The four, around which the new team is to be built, includes Ronnie Young backfield and end, Bob Fernandes end and backfield, Jack Crum backfield and John Chasey end.

Numerically the 1945 squad starts large enough, the coach indicates, there being approximately 55 candidates. Coach Ward called the candidates together Tuesday for the issuance of suits and on Tuesday held the first practice.

Assisting Ward will be a new coach who arrived here this week from Iowa. His name is Wendell Lisle. "He just came in today (Tuesday)" Coach Ward stated "and I haven't yet got a line on his previous record."

The season of games will open on Sept. 28, with the sixth annual football carnival of games, with Point Loma as the host team and the carnival this year will be held as usual at Balboa Stadium.

Coach Ward's lads will line up against La Jolla for the second quarter game. Each pair of the eight San Diego high school teams will play one quarter. Opening the play in the first quarter will be Coronado and Kearney High of Linda Vista. Grossmont and Sweetwater wil clash in the third quarter and San Diego High and Hoover High will play the final quarter, according to the schedule as previously announced.

For the regular season, the schedule of seven games announced for the Pointers, all of which are Victory League games except the one with St. Augustine, includes the following dates and places:

Oct. 5—Point Loma at Grossmont.
Oct. 12—La Jolla at Point Loma.
Oct. 19—Point Loma at Coronado.
Oct. 26—San Diego at Point Loma.
Nov. 2—St. Augustine at Point Loma.
Nov. 9—Point Loma at Sweetwater.
Nov. 16—Hoover at Point Loma.

All seven are Victory league games except the one with St. Augustine.

Buttons Spotlighted In Current Picture

Jewelled and Plastic Ones Add Drama to Costumes.

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here's a new definition for glamour in dress design. It's buttons! Not only are the buttons of modern design too thrilling for words, but the glamour role they are playing is simply breath-taking. What buttons are doing in way of adding "the touch that tells" to the current mode has to be seen to be believed, also the important role they will play throughout the spring and summer program is something to keep in mind. So watch buttons!

The idea of using buttons in a utilitarian way stands good and ever will, but even this is done in such artful manner one is impressed with the fact that in present-day, styling demands that buttons be ornamental as well as useful.

The emphasis placed on side fasteners for dresses, skirts, blouses and even suit jackets at times, plays right into the new idea that calls for a spectacular and dramatic use of buttons. When button fastenings go down the side from under-arm to hemline on a modish frock as they have a way of doing this year, they are made to do it with a definitely smart fashion gesture, the buttons themselves being designed to attract attention. The long-torso blouse that is buttoned to one side also depends upon stunning new buttons to give it swank. Yes indeed, it's buttons that count for high style this year.

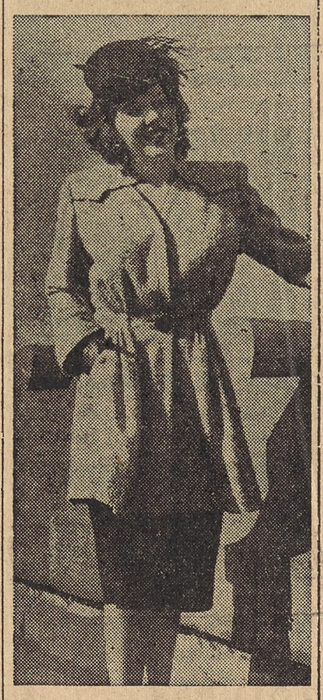
Speaking of suits, it's handsome buttons that will give them dash. Three great glittering beauties or flower-colored plastics down the front of the jacket! Your evening jacket blouse is fastened with tiny jewel buttons placed so close as to almost touch each other.

Yes, buttons are playing a brilliant game, but the most sensational move they have made is to add something so dramatic, so promising with endless possibilities for the future, one begins to regard buttons as something more than just buttons. The amazing thing that has happened is that buttons are used in a costume jewelry way.

It's a fact, for many of the newer buttons are as choice and lovely as a jewel. No wonder the urge came to use them as such. It has become quite a fad to use buttons as earrings. You can get screw earring mounts at the button counter for just a few cents that nimble fingers can glue either to tiny plastic flower buttons or to twinkling rhinestone types. Match these earrings with a choker of black velvet ribbon, to which sew three counterpart buttons across the front.

A velvet ribbon button-trimmed headband can also be made to complete the picture. There is also a charming rosebud plastic button that contrasts against the black velvet.

Tunic Flare Coat



Shortage of clothing material due to war needs finds reaction in a new vogue that calls for shorter lengths in coats. Although abbreviated this coat with a tunic flare sets a new fashion pace that lacks nothing in chic. Heralded for spring are very youthful belted-in tunic coats, and fitted tunic types that have a lampshade flare.

Style Notes

Bright feather boas are worn.

You must wear a pearl choker to be chic.

Two tones of one color is news for spring prints.

Exotic winter hats are aglitter with jewel embroidery.

Bolero dresses and bolero suits galore are on the way for spring.

The felt beret with a forehead-hugging visor is a new hat theme.

Suave and sophisticated black dinner gowns lead in the after-five mode.

Fabulous fur bags are carried this winter.

Printed satin is the latest for the dress worn under the fur coat.

Sugarless Icing.

1 egg white, unbeaten
½ cup light corn syrup
⅛ teaspoon salt

1 well-beaten egg
⅓ cup sugar
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon each cloves, nutmeg, ginger

Pour coffee over shortening and stir until melted. Add molasses and mix thoroughly. Add egg and beat. Add sifted dry ingredients, mix until smooth. Pour into wax - lined square pan and bake in moderate oven (350 deg.) for 30 minutes. Spread with the following:

Orange Topping.

⅓ cup sugar
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice

Mix all ingredients and sprinkle on top of pudding. Return to oven which has had heat turned off, for about 10 minutes.

Orange Fig Whip.

Junior Traffic Patrol Arranged For Local School

"Vacation for the school boy and girl is almost over, and the mothers are getting their children ready for school daily," says Police Chief C. E. Peterson in a statement to The News. "In the past, San Diego has enjoyed a splendid record at school crossings, which were controlled by Junior traffic patrols. We can speak with pride of our past nine years, in which there have been no accidents at these crossings, which resulted in either injury or death to any school child."

The Junior traffic patrol was first started at the Washington school nine years ago. Thirty boys made up that patrol. Last year 32 schools had complete patrols, with 820 boys guarding 38 school crossings each school day of the year in San Diego.

Ocean Beach Elementary school is one of five schools in district 5, the others being Fremont, Cabrillo, Pacific Beach and La Jolla. Officer Francis Cassin is in charge.

Boys are picked from the fifth and sixth grades. Due to this, there is about a 50 percent turnover in the patrol each year. The older boys in the patrol spend the last half of each year helping the police, in the training program for replacements in the patrol for the following school year.

The patrol training and management is handled by the police department. These boys are picked for the patrol by their teachers. They are chosen on a citizenship and scholastic basis, which instills a feeling of keen competition between students. They want to excel in their classes, so that they may be chosen for the job. Trophies are awarded at the end of the school year to outstanding patrols.

A HISTORY MAKING SPPEECH

Sunday, Sept. 2, the date of the Japs formal signing of the surrender to the Allies, ending the most terrible war of all times, will always be an epic day on the calendars.

Speeches were made by the several top Americans who played the major parts in the signing of the surrender terms. Among them was one by General Douglass MacArthur, however, addressed to his fellow Americans, which, in the opinion of this writer, history will record as one of the greatest masterpieces of its kind any American ever has spoken. In the hope that every reader of The News will read and study every word of this great speech, it is published herewith word for word:

My fellow countrymen:

Today the guns are silent. A great tragedy has ended. A great victory has been won. The skies no longer rain death—the seas bear only commerce—men everywhere walk upright in the sunlight. The entire world is quietly at peace. The holy mission has been completed and in reporting this to you, the people, I speak for the thousands of silent lips, forever stilled among the jungles and the beaches and in the deep waters of the Pacific which marked the way.

I speak for the un-named brave millions homeward-bound to take up the challenge of that future which they did so much to salvage from the brink of disaster.

As I look back on the long trail from those days of Bataan and Corregidor, when an entire world lived in fear; when democracy was on the defensive everywhere, when modern civilization trembled in the balance, I thank a merciful God that he has given us the faith, the courage and the power from which to mould victory.

We have known the bitterness of defeat and the exultation of triumph, and from both we have learned there can be no turning back. We must go forward to preserve in peace what we won in war.

New Era Upon Us

A new era is upon us. Even the lesson of victory itself brings with it profound concern, both for our future security and the survival of civilization. The destructiveness of the war potential through progressive advances in scientific discovery, has in fact, now reached a point which revises the traditional concept of war.

Men since the beginning of time have sought peace. Various methods through the ages have attempted to devise an international process to prevent or settle disputes between nations. From the very start, workable methods were found in so far as individual citizens were concerned but the mechanics of an instrumentality of larger international scope have never been successful.

Spiritual Improvement Need

Military alliances, balances of power, leagues of nations all in turn failed, leaving the only path to be by way of the crucible of war. The utter distructiveness of war now blots out this alternative. We have had our last chance. If we do not now devise some greater and more equitable system Armageddon will be at our door.

The problem basically is theological and involves a spiritual recrudescence and improvement of human character that will synchronize with our almost matchless advance in science, art, literature and all material and cultural development of the past 2000 year. *It must be of the spirit if we are to save the flesh.*L

We stand in Tokyo today reminiscent of our countryman, Commodore Perry, 92 years ago. His purpose was to bring to Japan an era of enlightenment and progress by lifting the veil of isolation to the friendship, trade and commerce of the world.

But alas the knowledge thereby gained of western science was forged into an instrument of oppression and human enslavement. Freedom of expression, freedom of action, even freedom of thought were denied through suppression of liberal education, through appeal to superstition and through the application of force.

We are committed by the Potsdam declaration of principles to see that the Japanese people are liberated from this condition of slavery. It is my purpose to implement this commitment just as rapidly as the armed forces are demobilized and other essential steps taken to neutralize the war potential. The energy of the Japanese race, if properly directed, will enable expansion vertically rather than horizontally.

If the talents of the race are turned into constructive channels, the country can lift itself from its present deplorable state into a position of dignity.

Democracy Is On The March

To the Pacific basin has come the vista of a new emancipated world. Today, freedom is on the offensive, democracy is on the march. Today, in Asia as well as in Europe, unshackled people are tasting the full sweetness of liberty, the relief from fear.

In the Philippines, America has evolved a model for this new free world of Asia. In the Philippines, America has demonstrated that peoples of the east and peoples of the west may walk side by side in mutual respect and with mutual benefit. The history of our sovereignty there has now the full confidence of the east.

And so, my fellow countrymen, today I report to you that your sons and daughters have served you well and faithfully with the calm, deliberate, determined fighting spirit of the American soldier and sailor based upon a tradition of historical trait, as against the fanaticism of an enemy supported only by mythological fiction—their spiritual strength and power has brought us through to victory. They are homeward bound—take care of them.

ANOTHER WORLD WAR UNTHINKABLE

Statements from American leaders issued on the epic day of the war's end clearly point out that there must not be another World War if civilization is to survive.

Says former Secy. Cordell Hull: "The very survival of the human race now depends upon its ability to build a system of organized relations among men and among nations, in which our newly-found powers will be made to serve the ends of human welfare."

Says former Secy. E. R. Stettinius jr., designated as chief American delegate to the United Nations: "The destructive force of modern methods of warfare which has been made so terribly evident by the atomic bomb, makes it all too clear that civilization cannot survive another war. The world cannot permit the new (United Nations) organization to fail. Every citizen of the world must accept personal responsibility for its success."

Says former Undersecy. Joseph C. Grew: "Another war is literally unthinkable, for in such a war we would have to visualize the wiping out of great cities and immense masses of civil populations in the first few hours."

Woman's Club to Meet Sept. 13 In First Fall Event

"Things Real and Lasting," is the topic chosen by Mrs. David A. Fraser, prominent in state and in the local federated club activities, for the inspirational talk she will give before the large group of members and guests expected to attend the opening meeting of the new club year for the Ocean Beach Woman's club, Thursday, Sept. 13, in the clubhouse, 2160 Bacon St., at 12:15 o'clock. A "Happy Birthday" luncheon will be carried out in the unique table decorations representing the four seasons of the year, with place cards arranged according to birth dates. Following luncheon, Mrs. C. W. Early, president, who is serving her second term as head of the club, will call the meeting to order. She will introduce the chairman who will give a brief outline of the new club year's activities. Important business also will feature the day's schedule.

Special invitations have been extended prospective members of the Ocean Beach Junior Woman's club now being formed by Mrs. J. R. Long, organizer, giving the younger women of the community the opportunity to hear Mrs. Fraser's address as well as to get better acquainted with the senior cub members, sponsors of the new department.

A program of music has been arranged by Mrs. Lloyd N. Davis, program chairman. She will present Lee Carolyn Henderson, soprano, who will sing a group of songs including "Deh Vieni, Non Tardar," by Mozart, from opera "Le Nozze di Figaro;" "Come and Trip It," by Mary Carmichael and " The Dove," by Landon Ronald.

Mrs. C. O. Woodland, courtesy chairman, is in charge of plans for the occasion and has announced that due to the food situation members and guests are asked to make reservations, also to give birth dates before Tuesday, Sept. 11. Serving with Mrs. Woodland are Mmes. L. C. Near, Lloyd N. Davis, D. R. Wallace, E. A. Kineman, F. M. Coloneus and G. E. Paulin. Reservations may be made by calling B-7544, B-6559 or B-4831.

The Bell System—the largest source of Radar for our fighting forces

This is not surprising for Radar development and production stems from the same roots that produced and continue to nourish this country's telephone system.

Radar, the instrument which enabled our land, sea and air forces to spot enemy targets through darkness, smoke or fog, was one of the outstanding fighting instruments of the war.

Two years before Pearl Harbor the Government asked Bell Telephone Laboratories to put its wide experience and knowledge of electronics to work to help perfect Radar as a military instrument. From then on the Laboratories cooperated closely in the Radar program with the National Defense Research Committee, with Army and Navy specialists, and with scientists of Great Britain.

The Western Electric Company, manufacturing branch of the Bell System, became the Nation's largest supplier of Radar systems. One type it made was universally used by B-29's in the Pacific for navigation, target location and high altitude bombing. Another played an important part in aiming the guns on our warships.

If you're waiting for a home telephone, it helps a little to know that Radar is one of the reasons. For years telephone manufacturing plants were devoted to war needs.
